

GCS Board Gets August Report; Studies Price Checks, Publicity

Both the Greenbelt and the Takoma co-op supermarkets came out in the red for the month of August, it was disclosed at the last meeting of the Greenbelt Consumer Services board of directors. Bob Morrow, controller of GCS, told the board that the former loss was due to abnormally high payroll percentages and meat margins being at their lowest point. The new store's loss was explained as an "expected loss for a new operation."

Pre-opening expenses which contributed to the new store's loss included inexperienced help, week-long stocking of inventory before opening, excess help until employment needs are determined, and pre-opening publicity expenses.

Price-Checking Favored

The executive committee, which had been directed to study the price-checking committee, reported it favored the continuation of this committee because it was a necessary function of the co-op. Since a resolution prepared by the executive committee on the price-checking committee could not be found, the board passed a motion to table the discussion for a future meeting, at which time the resolution would be read.

Since not one of the price-checking committee's reports had ever appeared in the Cooperator, the executive committee was instructed to draw up a statement covering price-checking committee activities to be submitted for publication.

Editor Asks

Cooperator editor Harry Zubkoff asked the board to "refrain from asking GCS reporter Doris Mednick not to report business that is conducted in open meetings," and suggested the board go into executive session on such occasions. Zubkoff's remarks referred to "off the record" statements occasionally made during board meetings.

Hunting Season Open, Police Sell Licenses

The hunting season opened in Maryland on October 5 and local nimrods have been crowding the police station this past week to purchase hunting licenses. Over 43 state licenses and 31 county licenses have been sold since the season opened.

The police station will sell the licenses 24 hours a day, the only license agent in the county making this public service available. The hunting season lasts until June 30. Literature regarding hunting laws and regulations, plus pamphlets explaining rules and safety measures are distributed with the licenses.

State hunting licenses cost $5.25 and county licenses cost $1.25.

Local sportsmen are reminded by the police department that hunting is strictly forbidden on any Greenbelt property. The city will soon post all the land not already posted, and anti-hunting ordinances will be enforced. The use of fire-arms in Greenbelt is also forbidden by ordinance except on the Greenbelt gun range.

Waltonians Plan Father-Son Jaunt

All arrangements have been completed for the fishing and camping over this weekend, by the local Waltonians. The cavalcade will leave for Prince William Forest Park in Virginia at 7 p.m. Friday on their third annual Father and Son (or Daughter) trip. This year's affair will be a three-day sojourn instead of the usual two. Plans have been made, however, to accommodate those who can only attend two days.

Membership requirements will be waived for this occasion to permit See WALTONIANS page 3

Drop-Inn Holds Tea, Open House Sunday

The Parent's Guild of the Youth Center is sponsoring a silver tea and open house at the Drop-Inn Sunday, October 14 from 5 to 7 p.m. The purpose of the tea is to acquaint the friends and parents of the Youth Center with the work that has been done recently on the building. All parents, their friends and the young people who are members of the Drop-Inn are welcome to attend.

The color scheme of the Center this year has been centered around blue for the woodwork trim with dubonnet in the draperies; yellow and white have been used in the furniture and walls to give a light, airy feel to the building. The work has been done under the direction of Mrs. Bobbie Baxter by the members of the Drop-Inn and members of the Parents' Guild.

Co-op Nursery Gives Free Trial Period

The Greenbelt Cooperative Nursery School has several openings for three-year-old children (or those who will be three before January 1, 1952) in the morning session which meets from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The school is offering a week's free trial period for each child, for which there will be absolutely no obligation on the part of the parents.

A ride has been arranged for these children in the morning session at a very nominal charge.

There is one vacancy in the afternoon session for four-year-olds. This session meets from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Interested parents are asked to call the school's president, Mrs. Anders, 2926.

Brush Fires Menace Greenbelt Property

The Greenbelt Fire Department responded to seven brush fires this past week, Sergeant Buddy Attick disclosed, the most serious occurring at the end of Plateau Place. The fire covered over five acres and was first spotted by the state forest warden from his observation tower. He dispatched a truck to locate the fire, which took over an hour to get to, and then notified the Greenbelt fire department. The fire was brought under control several hours later and the job finished after dark.

Investigation of the area disclosed remains of a small log cabin probably built by young boys, at which point the fire was presumed to have started. The dry weather which preceded last Sunday's rain made conditions for brush fires favorable, Attick explained, and many small surface roots and ground cover such as pine needles burned quickly.

This week is Fire Prevention Week, Attick reported. He emphasized the need for care and precautions which hunters and hikers should exercise while in the woods. With fall weather, the woods will be covered with leaves, and dry weather makes smoking or building campfires hazardous.

Parents And Cubs Urged To Attend First Meeting

All parents and Cubs interested in Cub Pack 229, and prospective Cubs and parents, are urged to attend the first fall Pack meeting. Full attendance and participation is necessary to successful operation, Cubmaster Arthur Greene announced. The meeting will be held at the Greenbelt Athletic Club on Thursday, October 18 at 8 p.m.

City Council and Veterans Housing Group Will Discuss Sale of Greenbelt

The latest developments in the Greenbelt housing picture will be discussed by the city council and Greenbelt Veterans Housing Corporation's president Michael Salzman and attorney David Krooth at next Monday's council meeting. The city council invited representatives of GVHC to attend the meeting for the purpose of exploring the possibilities of council assistance in the housing negotiations.

Councilman Thomas Canning also wishes to attempt a negotiation with PHA for the purchase or lease of undeveloped land for building new homes. In an interview with the Cooperator, Canning stated that many residents are leaving Greenbelt reluctantly because of the delays and uncertainties of PHA in regard to the sale of Greenbelt. Citizens are purchasing new homes, he explained, because of impatience with PHA although they would prefer to reside in Greenbelt. Those who wanted to buy homes outside of Greenbelt several years ago are paying more for them now, he added. He expressed the hope that PHA would be willing to offer land for development now, particularly in light of the present emergency housing situation.

GVHC president Salzman informed the Cooperator that the housing sale negotiations "have not changed." He declared that PHA has promised a new "valuation" on October 15. He emphasized that the valuation was not to be a "re-assessment" according to PHA, but a new figure based on capital improvements. The painting now being done in Greenbelt will probably be included as a capital improvement, he added. (When informed of this, Canning stated, "Capital improvement? Deferred maintenance is more like it!")

The council will meet on Monday at the city administration offices next to the Bank at 8 sharp.

Bronze Marker Found Near Picnic Area

The bronze plaque reported missing last week from the memorial stone at Indian Springs, has been found according to the police department. It was discovered in a debris-cluttered ravine below the Walker private cemetery in the Indian Springs area. It was located while the police were checking on another disorder in the locality, which was formerly an attractive picnic area.

It is being held at the police station pending instructions from representatives of the Walker family, who now reside in Washington, D.C.

Elementary Orchestra Starts Practice Sat.

Practice for the string orchestra for elementary children will begin Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Center school in the arts and crafts room. Paul Cianci will direct the orchestra this year, replacing David Burchuk. Mr. Cianci is well qualified in this work, according to Charles T. McDonald, city manager. He is a member of the first violin section of the National Symphony Orchestra, and has directed a number of children's orchestras.

The orchestra will consist entirely of string instruments this year. The beginners' class will comprise children from the fourth grade and up who have had little or no experience. The intermediate class is for those who participated last year or have had some similar experience. The advanced group will consist of those who have been working with the orchestra for several years.

All children interested in string orchestra work are urged to attend the first meeting on Saturday.

Greendale, Wisconsin To Be Sold Residents Assured Top Priority

Residents of Greendale, Wisconsin, sister town of Greenbelt, will have the opportunity to buy their own homes, according to a September 11 news release from the Public Housing Administration. The announcement was made by Walter Kroening, community manager of Greendale.

According to Mr. Kroening, the Public Housing Administration has completed the job of subdividing the developed urban portion of the Federally-owned community into parcels suitable for individual ownership and has established the sales prices for the various kinds of residential buildings.

Occupants To Have Top Priority

Kroening explained that the houses will be offered on a priority basis. Present occupants will have top priority, and will receive notification of the sales prices and terms by registered mail. Second priority will go to veteran prospective occupants, and third preference will go to non-veteran prospective occupants.

A veteran is defined as a person (or his family) who served in the military or naval forces of the United States for any period of time after April 6, 1917 and prior to November 11, 1918, and or after September 16, 1940 and prior to July 26, 1947 and or after June 27, 1950. The "family" is limited to these relatives of the veteran or serviceman: father, mother, spouse, children, step-children, (widow or widower) or orphan.

Present occupants will have a 60-day period in which to decide whether they want to buy. Any parcels not sold to occupants will be advertised for 30 days for sale to veteran non-occupants. Any remaining dwellings will then be publicly advertised for sale for at least ten days to non-veteran non-occupants.

Mr. Kroening said that a good-faith deposit of $50 per dwelling unit must be submitted with each offer to purchase. Upon acceptance of his offer, the purchaser will be required to make a down payment of 10 percent of the purchase price. The Government will accept a mortgage for the balance of the purchase price, payable in 25 years, with interest at four percent.

Property To Be Dedicated To City

PHA also announced that after the sale of the urban residential property it would dedicate to the Village of Greendale the storm and sanitary sewer systems, the sewage disposal plant, incinerator and personal property now used in the operation of these facilities. The Village will also be given the water system and incidental equipment, the central heating plant building, including the fire and police stations. Fire-fighting equipment, road graders and other equipment presently used to provide essential municipal services will also be dedicated to the Village.

PHA will dedicate to the Greendale School District, the school-community building with certain personal property; the site of a future school building, future athletic field and present municipal athletic field located adjacent to and south of Southway.

Park areas and commons as well as several other parcels will be dedicated by the PHA to the Milwaukee County Park Commission.

According to PHA, a number of commercial buildings, together with vacant land, vacant lots, and rural areas, including buildings presently leased for farm use, will be offered at competitive bidding at a later date.

Greendale was first offered for sale by the PHA by public advertisement on May 22, 1949. Sale of Greendale, along with two other federally-owned "greentowns"—Greenbelt, Maryland and Greenhills, Ohio—was authorized by Public Law 65, passed by the Congress in May 1949. This law authorized the PHA to sell the "greentowns" through negotiated sale with preference to non-profit veterans' organizations, rather than by cash sale to the highest bidder.

Development Corporation Lacked Finances

PHA carried on extensive negotiations with the American Legion Community Development Corporation, which qualified as the only preferred purchaser under the provisions of PL 65. However, when it became evident that the group would not be able to finance the purchase, PHA withdrew the preferential status from the Corporation on February 27, 1950.

Disposition activities on Greendale, as well as on other Federally-owned housing were suspended in August 1950 by Raymond M. Foley, HHFA administrator, following the outbreak of the Korean hostilities. Recently, PHA was told to go ahead with the sale of Greendale.

Greendale includes 572 urban dwellings in 336 buildings constructed in the 1930's by the Resettlement Administration. The dwellings are of masonry, with conventional interior details. They range from single family units to six-family buildings. The "greentowns" were built by the Federal government as examples of modern suburban town planning.

PTA, City Discuss School Health Checks

City Manager Charles T. McDonald and public health nurse Mrs. Frances Stauffer met with Mrs. Elizabeth Fugitt and Miss Thelma Smith, elementary school principals; Mrs. John McGee and Mrs. John Van Fossen, PTA chairmen; and Mrs. Mary Thompson, public health consultant for the Prince George's County Board of Education, to discuss the extent of the elementary school health examinations for the coming year.

It was generally agreed that examinations should be less frequent, but that each child be given a more thorough examination.

Be Ready For Emergency!

First Aid continues to grow and people generally come to appreciate its importance as a means toward accident prevention. Loss from accidents in the home, on the highway, and at work, and the need for immediate trained care are being recognized more and more by the American people.

A thorough knowledge of First Aid has proven to be a benefit to the individual, his family, his fellow workers and his community at large.

Through the courtesy of Greenbelt's Rescue Squad, classes are now being formed for instruction in the American Red Cross standard course. This class will be taught by a qualified instructor. The course will be free to all residents of Greenbelt over 15 years of age.

Letters To The Editor

"Perennial Gouge"

Within the last month we have read in Washington papers a growing sentiment toward eliminating this perennial gouge of "trick or treat." We were pleased that parents were decent enough to realize it is unfair and unjustified... it hits those who cannot afford it and gives already precocious children an added stimulus to a free haul.

You can't imagine the jolt we got when our own paper suggested last night that all our children swarm en masse and take not only our food, but our grocery money. Are you naive enough to believe that every child and parent is going to turn this money over to some vague charity? You must know that when we are solicited (about once a week in Greenbelt) we at least get some sort of identification and receipt when we part with our dwindling dollars.

Whose idea was this to put a double bite on us this year? Do you really believe we love nothing better than to stand quaking and wait until we are insulted and told to hand out to children whom we have never seen and will not see again until next year? I was under the impression most of us lived in Greenbelt because we couldn't afford to live anywhere else. Last year we parted with 87 treats for these midget crusaders. Some of them towered above us and if they were still in high school, must have been retarded. This ruined an evening for us and put a considerable dent in our very slim budget which is already beaten and defeated.

I might add at this point that we have two children—one 4 and one 6, and they have never gone out mauling. We have done other things to make up for this grab-bag scandal and I believe they are not abnormal or frustrated because they have been denied this "pleasure."

I might also add that we give our tithe to our church, our money and our blood to the Red Cross, our day's pay to the Community Chest, our dollars to the Boys' Club, the Greenbelt Band, the Volunteer Rescue Squad, the March of Dimes, the Salvation Army, Crippled Children, Christmas Seals ad infinitum and add deficit.

I'll bet my last dollar (get it quick before Halloween) that if you'd take a vote like the town did on keeping pets, you'd find about 80% of us think it's one of the most disgusting and annoying and expensive programs ever launched by predatory children or parents.

Elizabeth L. Snyder.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The Halloween plan to collect money for Children's Hospital (surely no "vague charity") was initiated by the Cooperator staff (hardly "predatory children or parents") with two fundamental ideas in mind.

One: to channel the usual wild Halloween energy of the large juvenile population into constructive activity.

Two: to contribute as a community noted for its preponderance of small fry, to a hospital noted for its services to children.

This idea has been publicly supported by the City Council and by Greenbelt Consumer Services. Many local organizations have endorsed this project, and dozens of individuals have called to express their interest. Other communities throughout the metropolitan area have been continually concerned with fund-raising for Children's Hospital. At least one columnist in a widely circulated Washington newspaper has devoted an unusual amount of time, energy and space to this sort of project, and has repeatedly published his support of it and his readers' approval.

The Cooperator, knowing well the nature of its city, is not thinking in terms of dollars from the food budget, Mrs. Snyder. We are thinking of small change, pennies on up, given in the spirit which has made possible an institution like Children's Hospital.

"Gratifying"

The Advisory Board of the Youth Center would like to express their appreciation for the fine editorial in the Cooperator last week. The interest your paper has shown in the problems of the Drop-Inn is very gratifying and reflects a fine community spirit.

Hi! folks... It's good to be back working or should I say slaving? ... behind a typewriter... This is your "gossip" column so if you have anything you would like to see in print just call me or leave information where I can reach you, and I'll do my best. Come on you teen-agers! I'm sure there's lots you would like us old folks (pardon the expression) to know about some of you... Like for instance your birthday, or places your special beau took you, or something nice happening to your best friend. Don't wait for someone else to tell me about it—do it yourself. (Please note my new phone number.)

The Benjamin Perlzweigs of 6-F Hillside are happy to announce the arrival of Naomi Jo on Friday, October 5. Dana and Judith join in the family jubilee.

School days often mean lunch-box packing days.

Sandwiches, of course, are the mainstay of the lunch-box, and because mothers are interested in nutrition as well as economy, I would like to suggest a few tasty fillings:

Cream cheese with crumbled crisp bacon or chopped olives.

Liverwurst mixed with chopped hard cooked eggs.

Chopped chicken and walnuts, moistened with mayonnaise.

This year chicken will be more plentiful than in previous years, so for a treat you can provide sliced chicken sandwiches or chicken salad for several members of the family at a minimum cost. If the man of the house carries his lunch, he'll enjoy these selections, too.

Crisp carrot sticks, whole tomatoes or fresh fruit add interesting texture contrast to the lunch-box. They'll stay crisp if you wrap them separately in waxed paper.

It's wise to avoid monotony in the lunch-box. Vary the sandwich fillings frequently and also the fruits and cookies so that the children as well as the men in the family will look forward to lunch-time. Youngsters need a good appetizing lunch to give them the necessary energy for study and play.

Mothers can speed lunch-box packing by arranging a lunch-box "corner" in the kitchen, with a shelf reserved for paper napkins, cups and waxed paper. Keep the bread board, slicing knife and cookie jar nearby. Use small wide-mouthed jars with screw tops for fruit sauces, salads and "spillable" foods.

Sandwiches should be wrapped individually in waxed paper and placed on edge in the lunch-box to prevent crushing.

Dr. Arnold J. Lehman Testifies

Dr. Arnold J. Lehman is director of the Division of Pharmacology, Food and Drug Administration. Some of his testimony before the Delaney Committee Hearings is of special interest to consumers. Mr. Vincent Kleinfeld is the chief counsel to the Committee. (Incidentally, he was the attorney who handled the law work for GCS when it was first organized.)

Mr. Kleinfeld: Dr. Lehman, have various compounds of mercury been used as fungicides?

Dr. Lehman: Yes. There have been one or two.

Mr. Kleinfeld: What have been your views on the use of compounds of mercury for that purpose?

Dr. Lehman: The types of mercury fungicides are what are known as the phenyl-mercuric compounds. We have investigated phenyl-mercuric and also mercuric compounds and find that the moment the phenyl group is introduced such mercury compounds begin to accumulate in the kidneys. They become very poisonous. The mercuric compounds are less apt to do so. The phenyl-mercurics are the best fungicides as of now.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Are they being used at the present time?

Dr. Lehman: Yes, they are.

Mr. Kleinfeld: What has been your position with respect to the use of selenium as an insecticide?

Dr. Lehman: From our work on selenium compounds we are of the opinion that selenium should not be used as an insecticide.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Has it been used as one?

Dr. Lehman: Yes; it has been and is still being used.

Mr. Kleinfeld: What is Selocide?

Dr. Lehman: Selocide is one of the insecticides produced from selenium.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Will you tell the committee your experience, if any, with selocide?

Dr. Lehman: I will give it briefly: Selenium, I believe, was first used in 1933. We investigated the product some 5 years ago, again in our long term study; using very small amounts in the diet, we find about three parts per million will produce a liver disease known as cirrhosis of the liver.

As we continued our experiments, the animals eventually developed cancer of the liver and the amounts necessary are very small, down to three or four parts per million. We called this to the attention of the manufacturer of Selocide and through a number of years we have had correspondence with them advising them against the use of the product. At least in one instance one State official wrote to us and inquired whether or not they should use Selocide on citrus fruit in Florida. On our advice they did not register their products for that use. We are still against the use of selenium and Selocide as an insecticide on fruits and vegetables. That is where the evidence stands at the moment. Our evidence is not clear enough to warrant a precise statement on residue hazard although residues are rather high. They approach one part per million on an unwashed apple, for instance. Selenium will penetrate the skin of the apple and appear in the pulp.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Then is it a fact that the potential hazard of DDT has been underestimated for some time?

Dr. Lehman: It is my honest opinion that it has been.

Mr. Kleinfeld: What is chlordane, Dr. Lehman?

Dr. Lehman: Chlordane is a chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticide.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Do you know what it is used for?

Dr. Lehman: When chlordane was introduced, a folder, issued in 1947, describing its usefulness, included about everything that might grow in the field.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Do you have any idea how many pounds of chlordane were sold in, say, 1947?

Dr. Lehman: Along about that time a conference was held with one of the manufacturers of chlordane, and they represented and made the statement that one company sold to date, September 23, 1947, 700,000 pounds, and another

Woman's Club Meeting

The Woman's Club of Greenbelt will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Social room of the Center School. The new corps of officers who will preside at the meetings are: Mrs. Donald F. Romer, President; Mrs. Lawrence O. Mott, Vice-President; Mrs. Richard White, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Charles A. Orleans, Corresponding Secretary and Mrs. Freeland Ramsdell, Treasurer.

The retiring president, Mrs. E. Leland Love, will be Director for the next two years.

Mrs. Henley Goode will be the speaker for the evening and her subject will be "My Trip to Europe". There will be soprano solos by Mrs. Thomas R. Freeman.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. A. Attick, Mrs. E. T. Braund, Mrs. Bertha S. Bonham, Mrs. R. T. Bonham, Mrs. P. J. Densberger, Mrs. Florence Ewing and Mrs. B. G. Fonda.

company had sold approximately 300,000 pounds.

Mr. Kleinfeld: Did you make long-term studies with chlordane?

Dr. Lehman: We have.

Mr. Kleinfeld: What conclusions have you come to?

Dr. Lehman: In my opinion, chlordane is one of the most toxic of insecticides we have to deal with.

Mr. Kleinfeld: In what way can it present a danger?

Dr. Lehman: First of all, it penetrates the skin very readily. Therefore, anyone handling it could be poisoned. Or if it is used as a household spray, the potential hazard to living in these houses is quite great because of the volatility of the insecticide and the possibility of poisoning by inhalation. More to the point is that it is very toxic to the liver and kidneys of an individual. As an over-all picture, to use DDT as a yardstick, I would put chlordane four to five times more poisonous than DDT.

Mr. Kleinfeld: In your opinion, does chlordane have any place at all in the food industry?

Dr. Lehman: I would be hesitant to eat food that had any chlordane residue on it whatsoever.

Little Bears Beat Calvert Eleven 20-0

The Greenbelt Little Bears Boys' Club 105-lb team defeated Calvert Homes 20-0 at Braden Field Saturday morning. The Little Bears are the defending champs.

Greenbelt scored the first time they got their hands on the ball on a pass to Holmes from the slinging arm of Iseli. Canning later scored on a line buck and following this was little Comings on a wide end-sweep. Iseli converted both extra points.

The Little Bears' forward wall was something to watch as the Calvert Homes team did not register a first down. Calvert Homes threw but four passes—three of them were completed to Greenbelt and the other was incomplete.

The next game will be played at Berwyn, the rivals of the two teams, and it should be the game to see. Game time is 10 a.m. Saturday morning.

GREENBELT PACKERS EDGES RIVERDALE 7 to 6

The Greenbelt Packers opened the season with a scare as the Riverdale boys were out to spoil the opening of the season. Greenbelt drove to the two-yard line at the half but could not break the strong forward wall of Riverdale, and the score stood at 0 to 0. Riverdale started off the second half by kicking to Greenbelt and soon got the ball back. A 15-yard penalty for "roughing the passer" put the ball on Greenbelt's 5-yard line as the third quarter found start of the fourth quarter found the Packers trailing 6 to 0 as the conversion was missed. Greenbelt, realizing that they were not playing a team that they were supposed to have beaten by three touchdowns, got to work and drove to the two-yard line but again failed to score. With only a matter of a few minutes to play, Greenbelt's Bing Miller intercepted a pass that was to give Greenbelt its win. Miller took a "hand-off" from Joe Brosmer and scored unmolested from the 5-yard line. Charley Thompson was sent into the game with special orders to make the extra point and he came through in flying colors as he caught a pass from slinging Joe Brosmer to give Greenbelt the margin of victory.

This Sunday Greenbelt travels to Oxon Hill, rated the top team in the loop. This should be a top game to watch and all that would like to go, should get in touch with Mr. Lee, 4067, or call Donnie Wolfe at 2726 or 7517. We are in need of transportation.

Parent Band Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Parent Band members of the Greenbelt Community Band Monday night, October 15 at the Center School. All Parent Band members are urged to attend this last quarterly meeting of the year. The meeting will start promptly at 8 p.m., according to Band secretary Vincent Caruso.

Tooth Replanted

Jan Dockins, of Hollywood, Md., points to a permanent front tooth that was saved by a unique dental procedure. The 8-year-old fell on the sidewalk and an incisor tooth was pushed up into the jaw, almost out of sight. The dentist to whom he was rushed, decided to attempt saving the tooth by replantation, a difficult procedure. He removed the uninjured tooth, and while it soaked in aureomycin, the socket was cleaned. The dentist held the tooth in place for 20 minutes while a temporary blood clot formed. Jan's parents then held the tooth in place for 10 hours. At last report, the tooth was firmly in place and serving Jan well. An important factor in the success of such a procedure, is that aureomycin, an antibiotic drug, is effective against many bacteria found in such a wound and at the same time, is not harmful to tissue cells.

Athletic Club Bowlers Jolt Standings Friday

Standings took a rude jolt Friday night, when the Misfits took over first place by trouncing Norman Motors 3 to 0. Kaufman starred for the winners with a 356 set and 133 game that gave him high game and a tie for high set. Berkofsky rolled a tidy 327 set. The three losses dropped Norman Motors to fourth place.

The Bums dropped to second by losing two to the Blue Devils. Burgoon paced the Blue Devils with a 344 set. "Boo" Bauer dropped 4 pins but kept High Average with 114.4.

The Cosmics won two from the Credit Union, and oddly enough boosted them to third in the standings (pinfall). Dawson and Lampe hit a 328 and 326 respectively to pace the Cosmics and move them up to seventh.

Last year's doormats, the North-end, refused to lie down. They took two from the Cliffdwellers. Burke rolled a 321 for the Northend that moved them into fifth and dropped the Cliffdwellers into the cellar.

The Rescue Squad took the Comets into camp for three games and moved up to eighth place while the Comets dropped from fifth to ninth. P. Williams came thru with a 322 set for the Rescue Squad.

North End PTA Meets

The North End PTA will hold its first meeting of the current term on Tuesday, October 16 at 8:15 p.m. in the school auditorium. Theme for the year will be "Child Psychology: Common Sense."

All parents of children enrolled in the school are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served by the room-mothers.

Holy Name Society Meets

John Foley of Kensington, archdiocesan president of the Holy Name Society, will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Greenbelt Holy Name Society on Wednesday, October 17, at 8:30 p.m. in the parish hall. Mr. Foley has just returned from the national Holy Name Society convention in Detroit. All members of the society are urged to be present.

Boys Club Activities

Your Boys' Club football teams got off to a very good start in the County League Football season last weekend. The 90-pound team played to a hardfought 6 - 6 tie with the Mt. Rainier 90-pound team. It was a hard-fought good game all the way. The 105-pound team came through with a 20 - 0 win over Calvert Homes. They look very good so look for some good boys' football games this season. The Packer Junior 150-pound team squeezed out a close win over Riverdale's 150-pound team 7 - 6. Some sparkling plays were made, as well as also some mistakes, which will be ironed out. Their defense needs smoothing out and they will be one of the best 150-pound teams in this area. All in all, the football squads acquitted themselves very well in their opening games.

An error in typing the list of boys receiving awards for Baseball was made last week. One of the outstanding infielders on the Championship Midget team—Fred Comings—was left off the list. We are very sorry this happened, Fred.

Back to football; this week-end will find the 90-pound team going over to Bladensburg for their game, to be played at 9 Saturday October 13. The 105-pound team will entertain the Berwyn 105-pound team here at Greenbelt at 11 Saturday, October 13. The 150-pound Packer Junior team will journey over to Oxon Hill for their game to be played at 2:30 Sunday, October 14. We would appreciate parents' cooperation in using their cars to transport the boys to out-of-town games. Please contact your boy's coach and let him know what you can do.

Our fund drive is still proceeding fairly well but we are not over the top yet. Let's get behind the drive, and if you have not already contributed, please do so. See you next week.

New H. S. Band Bows At Oct. 19 Football

The new Northwestern High School Band announces its first public appearance Friday, October 19, at 8 p.m., at the football game between Northwestern and De Matha High School, at the Byrd Stadium, University of Maryland.

Director Ronca announces that the band already is in top-notch shape. Sixty musicians comprise the musical group with ten major-ettes. Fine musicians have been gained in the consolidation of the three schools, including many from the Greenbelt Community band. Members from about fifteen different bands make up the new Northwestern High School Band. An orchestra also is in the making at the school.

Ann Walker has been chosen as head majorette of the corps.

WHEN songs are sung about soup, it's likely to be tomato soup. This is the kind that "most folks like best"—no doubt including some of the folks at your house.

Take a can of condensed tomato soup and you're well on the way to a meal that pleases. It's the perfect warm-up dish for those first fall days when you feel a chill in the air. There's no end to the ways you can serve it: Hot tomato soup side by side with a double-decker sandwich. Soup and a big salad-bowl. Or just soup and crackers—followed by a thick wedge of apple pie with cheese.

At cooking time, too, you'll find condensed tomato soup is a handy item. Try it as the sauce for burgers or meat balls, as an ingredient in casseroles or meat loaf. Use the following recipe for a TOMATO MEAT LOAF; it gets double-benefits from soup which is used in the loaf and over it as a sauce.

Tomato Meat Loaf

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 pound ground pork
- 1 1/2 cups soft bread cubes
- 1 can (1 1/4 cups) condensed tomato soup
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients, using only 1/2 cup of soup; set remaining 3/4 cup aside. Shape into a loaf or pack lightly into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 45 minutes. Pour remaining soup into pan and cook 15 minutes longer. Serve with hot tomato gravy. Makes 8 servings.
